We're still on track here. We should finish all the grade work at the Silver Spoon by the end of next week then move onto the treatment pond. Hoping to get all limestone imported the week of 8/24.

Just a reminder if funding starts to get tight with the Gold King response, I'll need that extra $70K to finish this season. The limestone, liner, and compost are costing us $53K alone.

Sounds like ERRS is really spinning up for Durango. I know all OSCs are going to be asked to evaluate what they need on existing sites. I am telling people we are as light as we can be and given we are building a bulkhead ourselves, we need to stay the course. I am also saying we do not need a Coastie to replace us OSCs (if we get deployed) as long as Evan stays up there.

Hope you don't mind I gave Matt our 2nd tote of NaOH until he could get a shipment this coming week to treat the Gold King adit. He will replace it for us Wednesday. I have enough caustic left in the current tote we have to last until then.
